

LUCIANA SQUADRILLI

Luciana Squadrilli is a journalist and food and travel writer.

She's a professional assessor (taster) of Extra Virgin Olive Oil since 2006. She was the curator of the first edition of the Gambero Rosso's Italian Extra Virgin Olive Oil guide in 2011 and she is a member of the Flos Olei panel taste (the international guide to extra virgin olive oil by Marco Oreggia) since 2014.

She was a member of the International Jury at "TerraOlivo Jerusalem – MIOOC Mediterranean International Olive Oil Competition" in 2011 and she is an associate of Pandolea, a non-profit association that mainly gathers female olive oil producers (but also other women strongly involved in the olive oil field, such as agronomists, researchers and journalists) operating under the patronage of the Italian Ministry of Agricultural, Food and Forestry Policies and of COI (International Olive Council) to promote extra virgin olive oil culture.

As a journalist, she has been an Italian correspondent for Olive Oils Times for many years and she is currently working on a new editorial project about extra virgin olive oil.
